

Tips for doing art with toddlers:

- Allow your toddler to explore whatever it is that you give them.
- Don't do an activity with an intentional plan, it never works out with this age range.
- Expect a toddler to be interested, leave it out for them to come back to later, or even the next day.
- Plan for them to put it in their mouth if you have a mouther.

Three quick tips for art activities that work well with toddlers:

- In general, I've found that making art bigger usually works better with toddlers. They're going to get messy either way. This gives them the creative control.
- Use unconventional materials to make art or do crafty things with. The exploration of the new material makes it exciting for them!
- Try doing whatever you're doing with movement, instead of sitting in a constrained chair.

Adapted from handsonaswegrow.com

Tips for doing art with toddlers:

- Allow your toddler to explore whatever it is that you give them.
- Don't do an activity with an intentional plan, it never works out with this age range.
- Expect a toddler to be interested, leave it out for them to come back to later, or even the next day.
- Plan for them to put it in their mouth if you have a mouther.

Three quick tips for art activities that work well with toddlers:

- In general, I've found that making art bigger usually works better with toddlers. They're going to get messy either way. This gives them the creative control.
- Use unconventional materials to make art or do crafty things with. The exploration of the new material makes it exciting for them!
- Try doing whatever you're doing with movement, instead of sitting in a constrained chair.

Adapted from handsonaswegrow.com